

For over 90 years the Tomlinson family have farmed at Babthorpe. The story began with Vincent Tomlinson who, returning from the First World War, took up tenancy of Babthorpe Lodge. Today Vincent's Great Granddaughter, Laura, is the driving force behind the new coffee shop at Spuds & Berries.

Vision have helped yet another established family business achieve their ambitions following the recent completion of a coffee shop at Spuds & Berries, Selby.

The brief was to create an extension to the side of the farm shop which would house the new cafe. The idea of the cafe was to deliver a space in which customers could sample goods whilst also having the option to purchase the goods from the farm shop. They are also located within a rural area, so, if delivered correctly, Vision had the ability to help Laura and her family create a destination restaurant.

The client had concerns about sustainability issues and cooking equipment efficiency and so Vision designed the kitchen to be completely electric and included a Falcon induction range. The kitchen also included a Rational combination oven and a counter which includes a stunning refrigerated display. Vision also procured coldrooms, extraction, all internal and external furniture and designed an eye-catching, bespoke, shop fit counter.

The install was completed over a period of 7 days to minimise impact to the business and also to fit in with the client's building programme. The client was left with a kitchen that would allow the staff to deliver a varied menu of home cooked, high quality meals and training was conducted on all new pieces of equipment post installation.

Vision continued to support the client as the site became busier and word spread of their new catering facilities.

Vision's focus on seeing me and my business as individual has been the factor that has convinced me I have made the correct choice in asking them to design my coffee shop/ bistro.

They listen and offer advice without brow-beating or attempting to impose their ideas. They understand my vision of the project and have complemented that with practical and imaginative ideas. They have been understanding and supportive when timescales were altered and show a genuine desire to help me succeed with what is an exciting but daunting project. They are professional, but friendly, attentive to detail and above all customer centered.
